A guide to the cost of going to university in the UK – 2018/19

Tuition fees

The cost of going to university varies as it will depend on each institution's tuition fees, accommodation costs, travel costs, food costs etc. Tuition fees in the UK are currently £9,250 for UK Home students. The vast majority of UK universities charge Guernsey students the UK Home Fee rate. There are some exceptions including Imperial College and Cambridge University who charge Guernsey students overseas tuition fees which are significantly higher than the Home student fee.

For most degree courses in the UK, the tuition fee will be £9,250 per year, the exceptions include clinical courses (Medicine, Veterinary and Dentistry) where fees are typically around £19,000 per year, as well as some performing arts courses, details of which can be obtained from the Student Finance team.

(For up to date tuition fees, it is important to check with the university, this information is available on university websites)

Living costs

The cost of living at university in the UK will vary considerably depending on which part of the UK you are studying in, i.e. the cost of living in London is much higher than other parts of the UK, the type of accommodation you live in as well as other factors such as your lifestyle preferences, transport costs etc.

Some examples of accommodation costs:

- In halls of residence: £100 - £200 per week (approx. 31 weeks for an undergraduate course) this includes bills and some prices will also include full or part catering
- In private accommodation: £70 - £150 per week, this excludes utility bills and food you will likely have to pay rent for 52 weeks)

(Accommodation costs in parts of London are considerably higher with some universities charging in excess of £200 per week for halls of residence)

Grants from Education Services

Non-repayable grants are available from Student Finance. There are two parts to the grant – a 'Maintenance grant' towards living costs such as accommodation, food, travel etc. estimated at £6,508 per year and £7,923 for London and a 'Tuition fee grant' for the course costs. The grants available are calculated using your household income, i.e. income of any parent and/or partner you may live with minus allowances which leaves an amount called the 'residual income'. The residual income is the figure then used to calculate how much your parents will have to contribute and how much grant Student Finance will fund. The maximum parents would have to contribute (as well as all maintenance costs) towards tuition fees is £9,150.

Example assessment:

Based on a student applying for a Sport & Exercise Science degree at Brighton University using 2018/19 figures.

Tuition & maintenance costs:	Maintenance	£6,508
	Travel (Brighton)	£462
	Tuition fees	£9,250
	Total costs	£16,220

The student's parents have a residual income of £9,000, which produces a parental contribution of £2,250, the student would then be entitled to the following grants:

Parental contribution towards maintenance and travel	£2,250
States grant for: maintenance & travel	£4,720
States grant for: tuition fees	£9,250
Total States grants	£13,970
Total States grants inc: parental contribution	£16,220

Further details of the allowances available to parents and how to work out the grant you may be entitled to are available on www.gov.gg/studentfinance.

Am I eligible for a grant?

You must have been living in the Channel Islands, the UK or Isle of Man for at least 3 years before the start of the course and be resident on Guernsey or Alderney on the 30th June of the year you intend to start your course. Sark residents are not eligible for funding. Student Finance awards grants for full time courses at accredited institutions. Please refer to the grants information on www.gov.gg/studentfinance for further details of courses that are eligible for funding.

I am over 22 years of age can I still get a grant?

You can apply for an Independent Student Bursary as long as you have been in 3 years full time employment and have been resident in Guernsey or Alderney for the last 3 years. Grants are not normally awarded to applicants who will be older than 56 years of age by the end of their course although there are exceptions to this rule. Independent Student Bursaries are discretionary and students must complete a written statement demonstrating their suitability for a bursary with their application.

There are further conditions including if you are unemployed etc. outlined in the grants information on www.gov.gg/studentfinance. Always check with Student Finance direct about your circumstances and funding options on telephone: 706560 or email: studentfinance@gov.gg

When do I apply for a grant?

Grant forms are usually available from the Easter of the year you are due to start university. These are available at school/college or direct from Student Finance T:706560.

How do I apply for a grant?

You and your parents will need to fill out a paper application form and return it to Student Finance with details of income etc. by 31st May.

How does the grant get paid?

If you are eligible for a grant for your tuition costs, this gets paid direct to the university by Student Finance. If your parents are contributing to your tuition fees, they will pay this direct to the university (some universities have payment agreements to spread the cost but check direct with each uni). This is normally charged on an annual basis.

If you receive a maintenance grant towards your living costs, this will be paid direct to your student bank account on a termly basis.

Bursaries from Employers/organisations

Bursaries are given to selected students by employers/organisations and some will also offer holiday work experience/internships. Some employers may also ask for a commitment after you complete your course to work for them. You can get a bursary from an employer and a grant from the Student Finance as long as it doesn't go above a certain limit (exact figures on www.gov.gg/studentfinance in the Guide to Higher Education Awards). You must declare any and all bursaries received to Student Finance. Check the application deadlines and details of all the bursaries available at www.careers.gg in the 16-19 section.
